circumstances during the Covid-19 pandemic.

This follows the migration of many of Answer Cancer's usual face-to-face activity onto online services, such as it's training offer and stakeholder engagement session, both of which have recently been held as Zoom meetings and broadcast via Facebook. Moving forward, we will continue to offer our services online even as we gradually reintroduce face-to-face activities were possible.

By uploading our training sessions and other videos onto YouTube, we also want to enable more flexible access to our services, as we know that for many people with busy lifestyles and caring responsibilities attending courses at a specific time isn't always possible. People can now dip in and out of sessions to suit them and their specific needs.

We will be adding more videos over the coming months so please subscribe to our channel to receive notification of new content as it is uploaded. We also welcome any feedback or suggestions that you might have.
